

SANDRA CHERK

Acrylic Paintings & Mixed-media • August 9 - October 14, 2016

Sandra is a native Californian whose art is inspired by the hills and coastlines of Northern and Central California. Essentially self-taught, Sandra has considered herself an artist all her life, but started painting professionally with watercolors in 1991. Almost a decade ago, the lure of the rich and bold colors of pastel swayed her to shift her palate and medium. Her pastel work captures the deep colors and textures of her native coastal landscapes. “I use pastels to paint the places I love. I feel fortunate to live in this area of spectacular beauty--the forests, ocean, and open hills. With a second home in Greece, also close to the mountains and sea, I am doubly lucky. I am struck by the atmosphere, interplay of sunlight and shadows, natural compositions in the scenery and village architecture. I strive to create images you can walk into, and feel the spirit of the place!” The vivid colors and workability of pastels have allowed her to develop California landscapes with her trademark softness, serenity and depth.
